ARISTO-CRAFT INSIDER

VOL. 20 - NO. 6 NOVEMBER-DECEMBER 2012

THE REVOLUTION CONTINUES ITS SUCCESS STREAK

We get calls every day from satisfied users and almost as frequently from dissatisfied users of other systems. The Revolution Train Engineer control system was built to provide remote control for the everyday user but with easy-to-use controls. All functions are shown on a screen, not a manual, and all settings choices are on the screen as well.

We chose radio control, as compared to an electricity current overlaid with commands, to eliminate potential problems with signals interrupted by dirty track and broken electrical connections on outdoor track layouts. We had the technology to do this by having a premiere RF engineer on staff that made our radios for plane models and previously for Hitec. Of course there are those that have perfect track and are in climates that do not have to go through winter upheavals, but more of the country has to deal with Mother Nature's worst.

The Revolution was a success from day one and we are making another large production run that will be here by the first week in October 2012.

We took some time to redo the keypad due to an occasional complaint, added screws to the body to stop opening of the case when dropped, changed the heat sink to stop it from touching the PCB board components, and kept the best of the rest. We will add an optional fan for those running in desert-style heat without airflow into the engine during summer seasons. We have made screw-in terminals available now on adaptor boards for locos that do not have an NMRA port and made the board more self-supportable.

We've added a great generic diesel sound and will shortly have a steam sound that can be downloaded from the Internet along with future upgrades to the transmitter software itself. This will be done wirelessly directly from a computer port to the transmitter or loco of choice and these update boards will be in stock shortly.

Our next step will be for a basic version that will give simple controls for usage indoors and with H.O. and O Gauge locomotives. We will eliminate the expensive display screen and use a new chip in 2.4 Ghz but with less memory. However, we will allow for 999 locomotive memory and some other features that can be programmed without a screen.

We will continue to work on the Revolution features and welcome written requests that we can now accomplish without having the transmitters sent back to us for updates. We are making a push into Europe and this will now allow our European fellow hobbyists to have the latest and greatest over the Internet. This 2.4 Ghz frequency is universal in most every country in the world and hobbyists' worldwide can now participate in the fun.

The Revolution is a new approach imagined in-house and is not a reverse engineering of another product. It was thought through by a team of dedicated model train people and tried to cover the 90% of functions used by most people. While it's quite capable of doing even more, we have limited the functions for ease-of-use reasons.

Frankly, we rarely get complaints, and of the few we did receive, we have incorporated changes in the new 2013 version that eliminates them. It does what it says it will do and does so very well.

2012 YEAR IN REVIEW

Our track factory moved and is now set up in a brand-new facility. They had been in the same location for some 50 years and it was past time to modernize. A container of track will be arriving about the time of this newsletter's appearance and we are already ordering more.

The Dash 9 has a new wheel for the past year that allows it to meet NMRA standards and it will start to appear on all of our new delivery diesel locos. We have also redone our large steam locomotive wheels and they too will start to appear on new runs as well.

The Aristo-Craft 0-4-0 Locomotive got a redesigned gearbox in 2012.

The 0-4-0 has a new gear-box that is the same used in our larger locomotives and will allow this charming loco to be amongst the more reliable entry-level locos on the market.

Our smoke system has been modified to give it more smoke and a longer run. It's an upgrade, not a complete new concept, but we're looking into that, too.

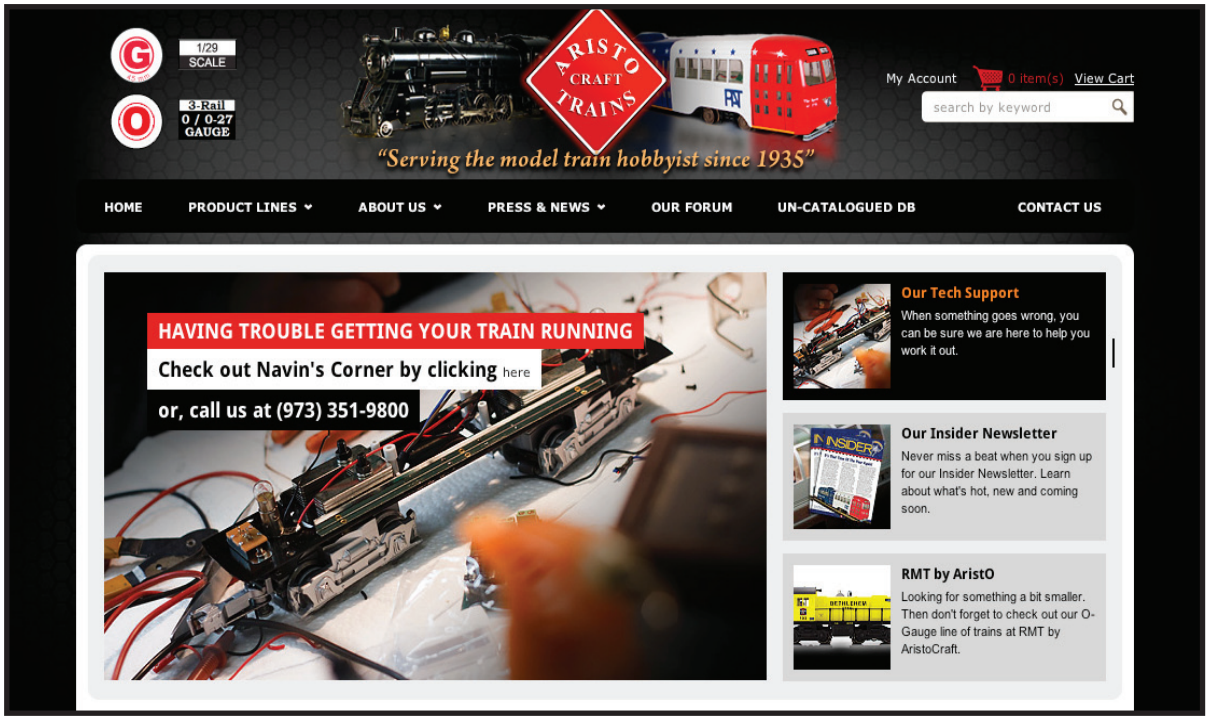
2012 YEAR IN REVIEW



The Aristo-Craft website got a big makeover in 2012.

The Revolution has had a series of upgrades and is detailed in another article in this newsletter. More on this later.

Our new website is working well with everyone receiving email confirmations and delivery notices as well as an invoice. We do intend to expand the informational aspect of the site next year, but we do reach a large marketplace with the use of Facebook and other social media. The merging of AristO O-Gauge trains and our G-Gauge line is now in place and working well, and production of the former K-Line products has been upgraded and all-new packaging is in place.

We do continue to look for ways to upgrade our product each year and we will continue to do so as techniques in manufacturing improve. Our bell-wether is Navin in repairs, who tells me that his workflow is a trickle compared to the days of our factory's fall from grace under prior management.

I promised to stay on while Scott took on the heavy lifting. My wife Maryann remains the controller and buyer while I help with the accounting and products. When I'm in Florida as a 'snowbird,' I Skype in daily as well as follow all of the e-mails. I am transitioning into full retirement soon. I want to thank all of you that have responded so well to purchasing from our new website and enjoying our products.

Our staff of Aixa in sales, Priya in billing, Jackie in bookkeeping, Sherry in shipping, John in the warehouse, Tony in the warehouse, JK in engineering, Michael J. in product management, Maryann in controlling and purchasing, and Scott in charge of it all are all busy and productive.

We're selling in Europe and elsewhere directly and in England through our longtime partner Bachmann. Our warehouse recently has all-new lighting and auto startup of zones when entered, a new sprinkler system, and a new marquee entranceway. We have had to cope with a slower marketplace as the average family has lost $5, 000 of income over the past few years and have not regained the value of their homes. Model railroading remains the best investment value for time spent, and 10,000 people retire each day and are open for a new hobby.

ECLSTS UPDATE by Harry Hartman

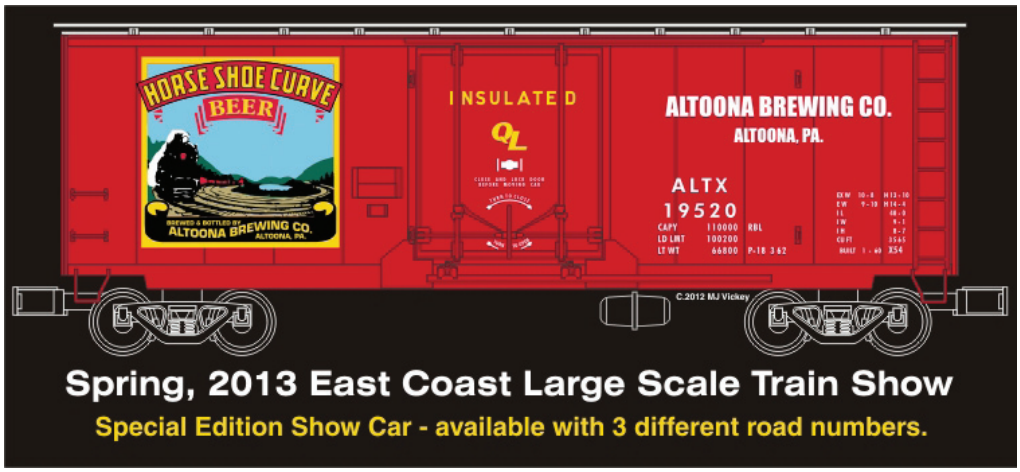
The East Coast Large Scale Train Show is moving right along. We have the club invitations sent out. About ½ of them are already back saying they are coming to the March 22nd and 23rd ECLSTS for 2013. We have three new clubs asking for space to display. We always like to give the clubs that have been there in the past the first choice. I always enjoy walking through the displays.

I just posted the information about the event hotel. We have signed a deal with the same hotel that we used last year. In signing the contract, they told me that the rate will stay the same for the 2013 show, but increases will be coming for the 2014 show. If you have not seen the information for the hotel, I will list it here:

Holiday Inn Conference Center of York, Pennsylvania
ROUTE 74 & US 30
2000 Loucks Rd
YORK, PENNSYLVANIA 17408
Hotel Front Desk: 1-717-846-9500
$89.00 for a double occupancy (plus taxes)

With this double occupancy you get a FULL HOT BREAKFAST. Many groups gather after the show at the hotel to exchange ideas and information about their displays.

New information about the show car has come in. The 2013 ECLSTS Show Car. the Horseshoe Curve Beer Plug-Door Boxcar, will come with plastic wheels and will cost $60.00. I am fairly certain metal wheels will be available at the show, but if not, I have been told that there will be an order slip to purchase wheels at the show price and have them shipped after the show. I have not received a cost on the metal wheels yet. This is a very colorful car, and I feel it will sell out before the show is over. So, as I always tell you, arrive early to the show to get your car (or cars). If you can't get there early, ask someone to pick it up for you. The show cars have always been a hit. As I said last time, I found some actual Horseshoe Curve beer cans on the internet and bought a couple to go with my cars.



We are in the design stages for the 2013 show t-shirt., which will be another hit at the show. As I have said in the past, if you have a favorite vendor that you like to see at the show, make sure you contact them to see if they are going to be there. If they are not coming, encourage them to come. If you have a new vendor you would like to see display/sell at the 2013 ECLSTS, have them get ahold of me at jjproductions@atlanticbb.net and we will send them the necessary information to get them started. If you know of someone that would like to present a seminar at the ECLSTS, have them get ahold of me, too. We are always looking for people to present topics at the shows.

I am sure I will have much more news for the next issue of the INSIDER. Since this is the November/December issue, I would like to wish you all a very Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays. Hope you enjoy some family time during Thanksgiving and Christmas, and maybe, just maybe, squeeze in some train running time, too! I am sure it will bring a smile to many at your house.

Round Up Your Orphaned Trains

- If you've been in the hobby for a few years, you have a freight car or locomotive that's living an orphaned life. It's a shelf sitter, a storage hibernator, a dust magnet. These items no longer fit the focus of your G-RR. They remain sadly hidden in a dark corner, waiting for their chance to shine on a G-RR.
- Now you can put these Orphaned Trains to good use. Turn them into cash to support the work of the NCMEC

NEW IDEAS FOR LAYING TRACK: CONCRETE PAVERS

by Lewis Polk

Throughout my 20+ years as a garden railroader, I have always seen digging a trough-type ditch as the best way to lay track and have water siphon down to the ground. I had a visitor here in Irvington last week that offered another look at laying track that has stood him well for many years.

He used concrete pavers to lay the track on and then back-fills with dirt to have a more realistic look. This method allows him to modify his layout at will whenever the garden look requires a change. He does use rail clamps, which makes changing or adding to the layout easier, but says the strong foundation of the concrete pavers allows for a less-work layout along with allowing future changes more easily.

Several pavers stacked to different heights can allow for terrain height adjustments, but trestles are still needed for larger height difference.

Simpler is always the best and this method has stood the test of time for this railroader. The northern climates especially do better with a base that does not change with the expansion of the layout during the heaves of the winter season. This method seems to alleviate the need to adjust the layout each spring.

Concrete pavers may not be good for all, but in many circumstances, this is a better way to create a layout.

P.S. I will be at the open house at my club in Florida December 15th if anyone wants to stop by and chat. This is the Tidewater and Atlantic club located in Tidewater Park in Southeast Florida. Their web site is http://www.livesteamers.org/railroad-links

A Bit of History Part 5: The Aristo-Craft Railroad Club

by Harry Hartman

Welcome back to our historical look at the Aristo-Craft Railroad Club Cars. In this installment, we will look at the 2000 Aristo Craft Railroad Club cars in 1/24th and 1/29th scales. As in all the previous years, your membership included your membership card, membership certificate, a 2000 Aristo-Craft catalog, and the car you purchased. You had to option to purchase the 1/24 club, the 1/29 club, or both. In 2000, each club car cost $60.00. The gold membership included BOTH clubs. Your membership card and the hand-signed certificate did not indicate which club you were a member of. I was searching though my old issues of Garden Railroading and found the advertisement for the 2000 Aristo Craft Railroad Club. I have always thought the Aristo-Craft Railroad Club has been an excellent value for what you get.

The 2000 Aristo-Craft Club 1:24 Classic Line Snow Plow

The 2000 Aristo-Craft Club 1:29 Eggliner

The 1/24th scale club car wasa snow plow. The 2000 offering continued the Track Maintenance Service. It came in the same grey color of the previous Track Maintenance Service with a bright yellow plow. This one was numbered A.R.C.X. 46799. A nice feature to this car was the working headlight. I have seen many you tube videos of this snowplow in actual service on many outdoor displays. Engineers would push the snow out of the way and if it became bogged down, the engineers would back up and take another run for it to clear off their empires.

The 1/29th scale club's offering for 2000 was the Eggliner It was painted in the Track Maintenance grey. It too was labeled Track Maintenance Service. As you can see in the picture, it has a grey body with red strips through the windows and striped and lettered mostly in yellow. The Eggliner is always a 'crowd pleaser' and they look neat running on any display. I have seen them used on several narrow point-to-point displays. These Eggliners are a great way to get started in garden railroading in a small space, or even if you are not sure garden railroading is for you and just want to test the waters. Point-to-points, small circles, or small ovals make any of the eggliners a great place to start.

Next installment we will look at the 2001 club cars. The colors take a change and then paint designs start to approach more prototypical. 2001 was the first year for multiple road numbers with the club cars. It was also the year I messed up with my purchases, so tune in next issue as we continue our historical look at the Aristo Craft Railroad Club Cars.
